This week, the House is looking at advancing several health care tax proposals, including permanent repeal of the medical device tax. They will also consider a proposal to delay the health insurance tax by two years. In the Senate, aside from a couple of health-related hearings, it should be a relatively normal week. Today, the Senate will consider the nomination of Robert Wilkie to be Secretary of the Department of Veterans Affairs. On the Administration side, we are paying attention to the potential movement of various regulations sitting at the Office of Management and Budget.
